Like magic, your excuses for not getting insurance have disappeared....

Your provincial or territorial health insurance plan may not cover all the costs associated with treatments and recovery from a critical illness, such as a heart attack or certain types of cancer.

CIBC Critical Illness Insurance provides a lump-sum payment if you are diagnosed with a covered critical illness or have coronary artery bypass surgery, and survive the 30-day survival period. This benefit amount is paid to you. If you live in the province of Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario or Quebec, then you may designate one or more revocable or irrevocable beneficiaries to receive the critical illness benefit if you die before the benefit is paid to you.

You may want to consider CIBC Critical Illness Insurance so you have some financial assistance should you be diagnosed with a critical illness or covered condition and:

- You may not be able to afford expensive medical treatments or medications
- You want financial assistance with living expenses while you recover from a covered critical illness or coronary artery bypass surgery
- You don't want to deplete your savings when paying for recovery and treatments

Benefits, features and conversion privilege

Term and premiums

Critical Illness Insurance is designed to provide a benefit if you are diagnosed with a serious or long-term illness, and the benefit can be used, for example, to assist with expenses during your recovery and help pay for expensive medical treatments. Coverage is available for 10-year and 20-year terms. Your coverage will expire on your 75th birthday.

Term-10 policy:

If you select coverage for the 10-year term, your premiums will be fixed for that 10-year period. After the first 10-year period, your coverage will continue for additional 10-year periods until your policy terminates, but your premiums will increase for each additional 10-year period.

Term-20 policy:

If you select coverage for the 20-year term, your premiums will be fixed for that 20-year period. After the first 20-year period, your coverage will continue for additional 20-year periods until your policy terminates, but your premiums will increase for each additional 20-year period.

Term-75 policy:

You cannot apply directly for a Term-75 policy. However, if you have a Term-10 policy or a Term-20 policy, you may request that your policy be converted to a Term-75 policy. For more information, see the Conversion Privilege below. A Term-75 policy expires on your 75th birthday and your premiums remain the same from the time you convert your policy until your 75th birthday.

<sup>1</sup> beneficiary means the person or entity that you designate to receive the benefit amount after you die. You may designate as many beneficiaries as you choose.

<sup>2</sup> irrevocable beneficiary means a beneficiary (whether primary or contingent) whose status as your beneficiary cannot be changed by you without the signed consent of that beneficiary. You also cannot make certain changes to your policy without the consent of the irrevocable beneficiaries. Such changes include:

- reducing your coverage amount; or
- reducing the percentage allocation for that irrevocable beneficiary; or
- changing that beneficiary's status from irrevocable to revocable; or
- revoking that person or entity's status as a beneficiary so that the person or entity is no longer entitled to receive the benefit amount.

Critical illness benefit

If you are diagnosed with a covered critical illness while your policy is in effect, then the critical illness benefit will be payable to you in a lump-sum payment. If you die before the critical illness benefit can be paid to you, the benefit will be paid to your estate or to your named beneficiaries<sup>1</sup>, if you were permitted to name beneficiaries.

The critical illness benefit will be paid if:

- i) you are diagnosed while your policy is in effect with one of the covered critical illnesses as defined in your policy;
- ii) you survive for 30 days after you are diagnosed with a covered critical illness;
- iii) if your claim is for Cancer (Life-Threatening), you have also passed the 90-day waiting period (described below) without having any signs or symptoms or diagnosis of cancer.

The amount of the critical illness benefit will be equal to the coverage amount you have selected less any premium that may be due but has not been paid as of the date of your diagnosis.

If you are diagnosed with more than one covered critical illness, and are eligible for payment of the benefit, you will only receive one payment of the critical illness benefit amount. Your policy will terminate after this benefit payment is made to you.

If you have more than one CIBC Critical Illness Insurance policy, the critical illness benefit, if paid, under all policies you have will be limited to $200,000 regardless of the total coverage amounts of those policies.

For more information on the critical illness benefit, please view the CIBC Critical Illness Insurance sample policy document which you can access in your application.

To speak to a licensed insurance agent for more details on the critical illness benefit, please call 1 888 393-1110 Monday to Friday from 8 am to 10 pm (ET).

Medical information about any diagnosis of Cancer (Life-Threatening) or any other type of cancer (whether covered or not under your policy) and any signs, symptoms or investigations that lead to a diagnosis of Cancer (Life-Threatening) or any other type of cancer (whether covered or not under your policy) must be reported to us within 6 months of the date of diagnosis. ## Conversion privilege

While your policy is in effect, you may change all or part of your coverage amount to a policy with a different term. You may convert from a Term-10 policy to a Term-20 policy or from a Term-10 or Term-20 policy to a Term-75 policy. We will not ask any additional questions about your health, lifestyle or occupation and you will not need to provide any other documentation. Each request for conversion<sup>3</sup> must be for a minimum coverage amount of $15,000 and cannot exceed the maximum coverage amount that is available under the policy you are converting from.

The conversion option is an advantage to you if your health worsens while your policy is in effect and you might no longer be eligible for new insurance coverage. For instance, by converting to a Term-75, you can keep your existing coverage up to age 75 without having to worry about your premium rate increasing as you get older.

Please note: For any request to convert, if you designate one or more irrevocable beneficiaries<sup>2</sup> under your policy, then you will need to obtain written consent from each irrevocable beneficiary authorizing your conversion request before the conversion can be processed by us.

Converting a Term-10 policy to a Term-20 policy

You may convert a Term-10 policy to a Term-20 policy provided:

- you submit your request to convert after your 1st policy anniversary<sup>4</sup> and before your 5th policy anniversary; and
- the conversion takes place before your 55th birthday.

Converting a Term-10 policy/Term-20 policy to a Term-75 policy

You may convert a Term-10 policy or Term-20 policy to a Term-75 policy provided the conversion takes place before your 65th birthday.

Conversion - terms and conditions

If you request that your entire coverage amount be converted to another policy, your original policy will remain in effect until you pay the first premium for the converted policy. On the date that the first premium is paid, the entire coverage amount will transfer from the original policy to the converted policy, and the original policy will end.

If you request that only a portion of your coverage amount be converted to another policy, the portion of your coverage amount that you requested be converted will transfer to the converted policy when you pay the first premium for the converted policy. Your original policy will remain in effect for the remaining portion of your coverage amount.

<sup>3</sup> conversion of a critical illness insurance policy is an option offered to you to change the term of your policy to a longer term (e.g. Term-10 to Term-20, or Term-10/Term-20 to Term-75) without having to provide any additional evidence of insurability (no medical tests or questions, etc.). When you convert your policy, you will pay higher insurance premiums for the coverage amount that you convert.

<sup>4</sup> policy anniversary means the anniversary of the date that your policy is in effect and coverage begins.

CIBC Insurance – CIBC Critical Illness Insurance

For more information on the conversion privilege, please view the CIBC Critical Illness Insurance sample policy document which you can access in your application.

To speak to a licensed insurance agent for more details on the conversion options, please call 1 888 393-1110 Monday to Friday from 8 am to 10 pm (ET).

Reducing your premiums

If your status changes from smoker to non-smoker<sup>5</sup>, you may be able to request that your premiums be reduced to reflect this change in your health information.

Ownership restrictions

You cannot transfer ownership of your policy (this is called assignment). You also cannot use your policy as security for a loan by assigning it to a lender.

Designating a beneficiary

(only for residents of Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec)

The Critical Illness benefit is payable to you if you are diagnosed with a covered critical illness and survive for at least 30 days. If you live in the province of Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario or Quebec, then you may designate one or more revocable or irrevocable beneficiaries to receive the critical illness benefit if you die before the benefit is paid to you (the benefit will be paid to you if you are alive at the time the benefit is payable to you). If you designate more than one beneficiary, you must indicate the percentage of the critical illness benefit to be received by each beneficiary. If you do not designate any beneficiaries, or if there are no surviving beneficiaries, then the critical illness benefit will be paid to your estate.

You may designate a beneficiary to receive the critical illness benefit amount at any time if:

- i) you have not already designated an irrevocable beneficiary<sup>2</sup>; or
- ii) you have designated one or more irrevocable beneficiaries, and the allocation of the critical illness benefit to any irrevocable beneficiaries does not decrease as a result of designating any additional beneficiaries.

You may change a revocable beneficiary<sup>6</sup> at any time.

If you designate one or more irrevocable beneficiaries, you cannot exercise any right or option under your policy unless the irrevocable beneficiaries provide written consent (unless such consent is not required by law). Examples of this are canceling your policy or reducing your coverage amount under your policy.

You can designate one or more beneficiaries by completing the beneficiary designation form and returning the form to us so that your designations may be recorded on our administrative system. A beneficiary designation form will be included with the policy documents you will be sent if you are approved for coverage.

Please note: Until you complete the beneficiary designation form and return it to us, your default beneficiary will be your estate.

For more details about designating a beneficiary, please view the CIBC Critical Illness Insurance sample policy document which you can access in your application.

To speak to a licensed insurance agent about designating a beneficiary<sup>1</sup>, please call 1 888 393-1110 Monday to Friday from 8 am to 10 pm (ET).

<sup>5</sup> non-smoker means you have not used any form of tobacco, nicotine, or marijuana, including cigarettes, e-cigarettes, cigars, cigarillos, chewing tobacco, nicotine gum or patches or marijuana products, during the 12 month period before the date of your request to change to non-smoker status.

<sup>6</sup> revocable beneficiary means a beneficiary (whether primary or contingent) whose status as your beneficiary can be revoked by you at any time without that person's or entity's consent.
